Shersft Warns Danger of Blasting Caps

Blasting caps can maim, blind and kill.

With that grim note, Sheriff David T. Robertson today issued a warning about the danger of blasting caps to all youngsters and their parents.

Every year scores of boys and girls are hurt in blasting cap accidents, the sheriff pointed out.

He sternly warns children: "If you find a blasting cap, leave it where it is and call me or some other grown-up. Don't pick it up. Do not touch it — not even with a ten-foot pole."

The sheriff described caps as being small, metallic cylinders about as big around as a lead pencil and varying in length from one inch to five and one-half inches. One type has an open end and is fired by flame from a fuse. Another has two covered wires coming out of one end and is fired by electric current. Both kinds are dangerous. Shock, heat or careless handling can set off the caps which are loaded with a sensitive explosive.

Blasting caps are needed to explode dynamite to build roads, dams and skyscrapers, and to mine coal and metals. They are vital, too, in laying pipe lines and farmers use them frequently in clearing fields and removing boulders.

But only an experienced person knows how to handle the caps safely. When one explodes, hundreds of small pieces of small metal fly out in all directions, sometimes as far as 200 feet; and even at that distance, they can cause serious injuries.

Sheriff Robertson, who is pressing this safety drive at the request of the National Sheriff's Association, and the Institute of Makers of Explosives, has this safe and sound advice for parents: "Teach your children to know a blasting cap at sight. Insist they shun a cap as they would a rattlesnake. That's the only way to play safe with a blasting cap."

About The Home

By Frances Dell

There is a handsome new building material on the market. A dramatic new translucent paneling that goes with modern and traditional homes, depending on how it is used.

This paneling comes in four different patterns - chromocels, mosiacs, honeycombs, wood curls. It adapts itself perfectly to translucent ceiling, sliding partitions, room dividers, folding screens, windows, doors and bathroom furniture.

Despite its look of luxury, this paneling is not too expensive. Just a touch of this new paneling gives a very new and individual look to any home.

If you are remodeling your home or building a new one, look into the many new building materials. Some have just been put on the market during the last year. A good building advisor can tell you all you will need to know. However it is a good idea to look around on your own for ideas.

The modern idea of decorating a home or landscaping a yard operates on the theory that space is not emptiness. This makes for a restful change from some of the ideas of the past. Because of the high cost of land, and building, this new space must be planned.

It will take a great deal of planning and thought but the average size house and building lot can be turned into a spacious restful work of art.

Needed

Another vital need is world peace in the large economy size.

NOT SO INTERESTING

Grand Rapids, Mich.- A telephone conversation between two women ended abruptly—one of the women, Mrs. Nancy A. Scott, fell asleep, Mrs. Roland R. Urban, who had been talking with Mrs. Scott, became alarmed and notified police, who found Mrs. Scott sound asleep at the telephone. She explained that she had spent several nights without sleep with a sick daughter and was suddenly overcome by sleep during the conversation.

Appomattox is a growing town.

Republican party chiefs, preparing for next year's Congressional elections, will hold an unusual strategy conference in Washington on June 6 and 7.
